

Beach renourishment targeted for September

BY TRACI BONNEY

If all goes well, September may be a sandy month for county officials.

Bill Mitchell, who with Dr. Louis Cappozoli has made a study of the best method for renourishing Hancock County's eroding sand beaches, suggested to the board of supervisors Monday that the renour-ishment project start in September after the finish of the tourist season.

Mitchell and Cappozoli attended the board's meeting to update the supervisors concerning possible sources for sand. Mitchell said one source being considered, which if dredged would also create a needed channel at Port Bienville

Industrial Park, did not have enough sand of the right quality for the project.

The Port Bienville source could provide about 65,000 cubic yards of sand, which would contribute to the project, Mitchell said. However, he added, the county would have to dispose of about 12 feet of clay which covers the sand.

Current projections for sand needed depend on which option the board chooses, Mitchell told the board. Spot renourishment of the Washington Avenue and Waveland beaches would require approximately 200,000 cubic yards, while renourishment of the entire 6.2 miles of beach could take from 660,000 cubic yards to one cubic mile of sand.

Mitchell presented two options for providing the sand: upland hauling and offshore dredging.

He said that offshore dredging would be more economically feasible if the county needs more than 260,000 cubic yards of sand; but upland hauling would be better if less required.

However, upland hauling can cause road damage, which was not figured into the estimated costs since the amount of damage possible is unknown at this time, Mitchell explained.

If the county does decide to haul the sand in from upland,

Roof leaks plague new school

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board members listened Monday, as architect John Fields, of Tompkins, Hanson and Fields, reported on the location of 11 to 12 roof leaks at the new high school.

"Over the four building complex," stated Fields, "six to seven leaks were located along with an additional five or more trouble spots."

Fields said, the roofing company, contracted by Lincoln Builders of Ruston Inc. would be repairing the areas as soon as the weather permitted.

Until now, roofing work was placed on hold in order that rains would fall and the leaks could be pin-pointed.

Another problem area concerned the installation of science laboratory equipment by Taylor Manufacturing Company.

KILLING TIME

Yes, we have no ideas today

Well, isn't this interesting? I'm all Sauided out (as I'm sure most of y'all are), and I feel no need to comment on any particular aspect of the human condition — at least, not in terms I can use without being told to put away my pulpit.

Translation: I'm temporarily out of ideas for a column.

Maybe I should do what the networks do when they run out of ideas: reruns.

Oh, excuse me; I mean rebroadcasts (euphemisms — sheesh!)

What do you say — shall I republish one of my past columns?

But which one to choose? One of my first ones about road signs or bumperstickers, or maybe the July essay on people-proofing products? Perhaps I should blow the dust off my August expose of the problem of answering machine illiteracy, or the September saga of Barbie, Ken and his plastic hair.

Excuse the silence. I was just re-reading my "packrat" column from September 6, 1990. If I were going to republish a column, I think it would be that one. It's universal in its appeal, timeless in its commentary. And considering that George Bush may be giving the orders to severely alter the earth's geography in a few days, the part of the column about his borrowing Easter will come early this year. That leaves four holiday columns.

But I don't really want to rerun a holiday column. That seems a bit sacrilegious to me. (Long pause)

In addition, $912.50 was paid to E. Michael Nease, county treasurer, to the credit of the General Fund. The amount represents payment of fines by children involved in Youth Court actions.

Youth Court Judge Michael D. Haas commended the staff for this effort, which resulted in the highest amount of restitution and fines collected for one month in the history of the court.

Money collected from children owning restitution goes directly to the victims involved in the case. Restitution serves two purposes: it helps the victim repair or replace that which was damaged or stolen; and it is a rehabilitative tool that is valuable in teaching the child

ON PATROL

BURGLARY OF A DWELLING

Hancock County Sheriff Department Investigator Nathan Hoda reported that two adults and two juveniles were arrested Thursday evening and charged in connection with two December Leetown burglaries.

Arrested were two 17-year-olds, Jason T. Lee, 19, and Michael J. Stockstill, 19, both of Leetown. Lee, Stockstill and one of the juveniles were charged with two counts of burglary of a dwelling, while the other juvenile was charged with one count, according to Hoda.

Almost all the items from the two burglaries were recovered, he added.

Hoda said the arrests were made after the juveniles tried to cash a $1,200 check they had written on a check taken in one of the burglaries.

Lee and Stockstill have been released on bonds of $5,000 each, and the juveniles were released to their parents pending hearings, Hoda said.

He said Deputy George Burleson and Auxiliary Deputy Nathan "Corky" Hoda assisted in the investigation.

How to deal with grief over separation from loved ones

The holidays were even more special than usual this year because the men and women in the 135th Army Reserve Unit came home to celebrate Christmas with us. Operation Desert Shield and its demands on military personnel is unsettling to most Americans, but it is particularly upsetting to the more than 170 families in our community who have a loved one in this mobilization. Concern and heartache experienced is directly related to a person's individual investment.

Is a neighbor, friend or relative involved? The closer the relationship, the greater your emotional investment in that person or persons. Adults often experience grief when separated from loved ones. Do not fault yourself or try to ignore the grief.

Join other adults in similar circumstances and talk about your feelings. This venting of emotion helps by facing up to the situation and knowing that others truly understand your feelings of fear and loneliness.

Two people or groups of people that don't need to be used as listeners are the loved one overseas and children. The military person can only feel guilt and frustration about the situation. They can do little to change your circumstances, although they would like to be at home as much as you would like them there. Communicate often and certainly say, "I miss you," but don't dwell on the hardships or grief you experience.

Children, like adults, experience grief over separation from a loved one. Parents sometimes feel uncomfortable with children's ways of coping and do not know how to help them. Parents feel particularly uncomfortable when children initially show little emotion about the loss.

Remember, not talking about a family member does not mean children have accepted the situation. The parent may have to bring up the subject. Whether you introduce the topic or children, ask questions about the absence, give brief, honest statements.

Keep responses on children's level, listen, accept their anger or sadness and express your own feelings briefly. For example, saying, "I miss Daddy, too," opens the door for your children to talk about how they feel.

Focus on their emotions. Do not burden them with adult problems. They are not equipped to deal with adult emotions or problems and experience emotional trauma when expected to do so.

Avoiding the subject altogether can cause unnecessary anxiety for a child. But confronting a child with too much information, such as details of the dangers of war, is also stressful. So, what should you do?

Reassure children they will still be taken care of, not abandoned.

Let them know they are loved by both parents.

Tell children what happened is not their fault, but rather a circumstance that many families are experiencing. Repeat this message frequently because changes in their world creates insecurity.

Talk with older children, other family members, friends and child care providers about how you are handling the situation. Ask for their cooperation and support. Many well-meaning people frighten children by not recognizing the impact of words.

Do not make grief over separation the center of your life. Such self absorption can make the time seem longer and can interfere with your effectiveness as a parent and the enjoyment of family and friends.

Believe in yourself and your ability to cope with this difficult situation. Turn to other adults when you need to and don't hesitate to ask for help. More people care about you than you may realize.

However, if I did rerun it, I would have to have George borrow the weapons from someone else, since Margaret Thatcher resigned as prime minister of England not too long ago.

In short, I guess none of my columns is really suitable for republishing.

But then, how many television programs are worth rebroadcasting?

So, until next week (when hopefully I will have something interesting to say), stay tuned. Same Bat-time, same Bat-channel.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Many Mardi Gras krewes are busy making the final preparations for balls and parades.

Mardi Gras will be February 12 this year, a bit on the early side.

This means the Krewe of Nereids will roll on Sunday, February 3, less than a month from now.

Those who plan on participating in the parade as a marching group, or entering a float in the Krewe of Hancock, need to get things rolling if they haven't started yet.

On Saturday, February 9, the Diamondhead parades are scheduled and the Pass Christian parade is set for February 10.

The Krewe of Real People should roll along the streets of Bay St. Louis on Mardi Gras Day.

There will also be several other parades during the weeks before Mardi Gras Day, such as the Krewe of Kids, a Cedar Point affair, and a number of school parades.

We will have our share of parades within the next few weeks, and then there will be St. Patrick's Day parade in Waveland in March.

Happy parading to everyone.

Libby Roland, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce executive director, told me late Wednesday that Lester Herrington, interim executive director of the State Gaming Commission, is the scheduled speaker for the next Morning Edition.

Herrington, a deputy commissioner for the State Tax Commission, is to give a status report on the regulations on gaming in the state.

The event is set for 7:30 a.m., Friday, January 25 and is sponsored by the Private Industry Council and will be held at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

Roland reports that the chamber is expecting a large turnout for the Morning Edition.

I hope to see you there.

Hancock Countians thought it would never stop raining Sunday night.

I have heard reports of six, 10 and even areas with 12 inches of rain for Sunday afternoon and night.

I know one thing for sure, we had a lot of water fall in Bay St. Louis over about a 12-hour or so period.

I guess we were lucky compared to other cities, such as Long Beach which had numerous homes flooded for several days.

We got plenty of rain, and most of it ran off pretty fast with the exception of a few areas.

Drainage facilities need to be in tip-top shape in order to handle so much rain fall in such a short period.

I guess we were lucky our grounds were able to suck up a lot of the water. I thought I would find a lot more water around Monday morning.

I am sure later in the year we will be wishing for rain when the hot, dry days of summer arrive.

Our responsibilities in the legislative session

The Mississippi Legislature is back at the Capitol, in the opening days of the 1991 session. The time has come for legislators to get to work on Mississippi's problems—financial, educational, environmental, and all the others.

But, we must not leave the task of solving state problems just to the lawmakers. It is time, too, for us—the voters, taxpayers, and residents—to get to work.

What are our responsibilities in a legislative session?

Think about these:

Take the time to identify and understand the issues which affect the state and the local community.

Form your own conclusions, based on facts and knowledge, as to answers to the state's problems.

Communicate your ideas and thoughts to your legislators—both senators and representatives.

Ask for commitments from your legislators to support reasonable solutions to the state's problems.

Remain up-to-date through the legislative session. Take the time during the session to discuss the issues with your legislators.

Then, at the close of the session, evaluate the work and the voting record of your legislators. In the 1991 elections, support those who best represent your philosophy of government. Support other candidates if you believe a legislative change is in the state's best interest, and in your best interest.

And, remember to thank those legislators who contribute to the well-being of the state and her citizens through their public service.

employment for this business, but be a magnet to pimps, prostitutes, drug traffickers, murderers and gangsters, as in Nevada and New Jersey?

—When so many people lose their lives so suddenly, will our suicide rate approach that of Las Vegas—the highest in the nation?

—Has any study been made at any time as to the need for and cost to our taxpayers for:

a. Sewerage and water system connections and enlargements?

b. Off-water parking areas?

c. Traffic and law enforcement police?

d. Other expenses involved?

—Aesthetically, Will the scenic beauty of our Bay and other waters be adversely affected by these huge boats?

—Will commercial gambling adversely affect our appeal to retirees in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead, etc.? This is a profitable business.

—Will commercial gambling adversely affect the moral and spiritual values of young and old in nearby schools, churches and homes? Also, will it adversely affect property values thereof? Our people have sacrificed to erect these cherished buildings.

Why were these questions not answered before the vote on gambling in December?

JANUARY 4, 1981

—U.S. Customs Service agents Friday unloaded some $64-$70 million worth of marijuana from an ocean-going tug along Custom Service docks at Hancock County's Port Bienville Industrial Park near Pearl River. The vessel joined a fleet of 20 craft confiscated by authorities in the current war against marijuanna smugglers in the Gulf of Mississippi and Louisiana coasts. A Customs Service official Friday said his department has been plagued at Port Bienville by persons in small boats attempting to board the confiscated vessels in hopes of finding weed.

—Henry Otis, Hancock County registrar of voters, said new automatic machines have saved his office a lot of time and energy in counting election returns the past year. His office acquired the machines in the early part of 1980. Since then the machines have been used the last three elections.

—A $600 a year pay hike is in the offing for Hancock County Board of Supervisors as a result of the $20 to $25 million assessment classification. Incomplete figures put Hancock now at in excess of $22 million against $17 million in 1965. State law provides that in its present category supervisors are entitled to a pay of $4,200 a year.

Gulfport, Miss., Jan. 2.—When Mrs. Pauline Nissenson, an aged lady residing in Bay St. Louis, heard that the cruiser Chester, bearing Envoy Lind, was coming to Ship Island, near Gulfport, she came here and made earnest and tearful requests of Congressman Harrison that permission be granted her son either to come ashore or that she be allowed to board the Chester, that she might hold him in her arms once more before she died. "It is three years since I have seen my son," she said. "My health is fast failing, and I may not get another chance to see him." When the tug approached within fifty feet of the Chester it was stopped and word was passed by the officer of the deck that no one would be permitted to board or leave the Chester. The son, however, made his appearance at the rail, called solicitously to his mother, inquiring of her health and the old home which he had left. Mrs. Nissenson was overcome and, falling against the rail of the tug, had to be supported until she could regain her composure. During the interval, John Lind, personal representative of the President, stood calmly on the deck of the Chester, witnessing the incident without comment. So pathetic was the figure of mother and son that tears came to the eyes of attaches of the tug boat. The aged woman came back to Gulfport, feeling greatly disappointed and in broken words of French and English, bemoaned her fate and the embrace of the lad she reared and was so closely attached to. She was profuse in her thanks to the Congressman and the officers of the tug, however. An effort may be made to get her story to President Wilson and have him on her behalf, possibly to the granting of a furlough to her sailor son.

Louise Patrick, the well-known praline woman, has returned to Bay St. Louis from Pass Christian and is again selling her well-known products. Orders of gumbo file, "cata tot chaud" will receive prompt attention.—adv.

The fact that he was defeated in the election should make no difference since his opponent was an illegal candidate, holding no license at the time, nor since, to authorize his candidacy.

In other words, where a local zoning ordinance controlling or restricting the location and operation of dockside gaming facilities conflicts with state law, the state law takes priority.

"I'm in strong disagreement with the attorney general on this subject," Franckiewicz stated. "It is absolute lunacy to have dockside casinos that aren't controlled by local zoning."

"I'm really concerned that all of the talk during the debate leading to the election, all the talk about our need to control it at a local level and our ability to control it, was nothing but lip service."

He said he will sponsor legislation during this session to put zoning control back in the hands of local government officials.

Briefly mentioning the recent ruling that makes bingo legal, Franckiewicz said a bill will be introduced to tighten bingo regulations in order to prevent large commercial operations from coming into the state.

Hancock Bank's Affordable New Savings Plan That Pays You MORE...

Higher Interest For The Small Saver

Now there's a savings plan that will let you save as little as $25.00 a month (or, as much as you like) and still receive *6% interest compounded quarterly. The amount you save is limited only by your ability to fulfill your commitment to yourself.

Safe & Secure

Hancock Bank continues to be listed among the Nation's 50 strongest large banks by VERIBANC, Inc. Not only is your money earning top dollar for a plan of this type, but it is in one of the safest banks in the country.

Convenient

The "Pay Yourself First" savings plan is also one of the most PAINLESS means of saving due to its Automatic Electronic Fund Transfer feature which lets you transfer as little as $25.00 weekly, bi-weekly or monthly.

This means no passbook to keep up with, no coupon book, no deposit tickets and no waiting in line. In fact, the only way you can make a deposit is electronically from one account to another.

It's like paying your lightbill with a pre-authorized draft directly from your checking account. And, you never see it, so you won't miss it.

Floating Interest Rate

The plan also has a built-in safeguard against inflation. If interest rates go up, your rate will increase. Even if rates go down you will still earn a premium rate.

18 Month Maturity

The plan only requires an 18 month commitment. After that you have ten days during which you may withdraw your funds. If we don't hear from you within that period, the account will automatically renew itself at the prevailing interest rate.

If you have an emergency and need to make a withdrawal, you will be subject to an interest penalty similar to other timed savings plans.

Easy To Open

All you need is a personal account in your name at Hancock Bank or any financial institution. And, there is no opening deposit required.

To open your "Pay Yourself First" account, just stop by your nearest branch and fill out an authorization card. Or, give us a phone call. It only takes a few minutes.

Board president Ronald Cuevas asked Mitchell to report his findings to Mayors Edward Favre and Stella Frilot, Port and Harbor Commission Executive Director Harold "Buz" Olsen, and the Hancock County

"We'll meet with them, decide where we want to go from here, and go," Cuevas said.

Other business addressed by the board included:

—taking under advisement bids for wash pea gravel and clay gravel;

—accepting a bid from Lag-

—discussing construction of a spillway on a school bus turnaround;

—approving the second quarter appropriations for the sheriff's and tax assessor's offices;

Seafood hors d'oeuvres rate compliments to hostess

Rich, flavorful morsels that can be eaten with the fingers and without a lot of effort are popular with party guests and hosts alike. In fact, hors d'oeuvres and their accompaniments often become meals in and of themselves.

But coming up with new and different hors d'oeuvres isn't always easy. So, how can you set your table to be interesting and different from the rest?

You can begin by offering guests an assortment of delicious smoked fish and shellfish with condiments such as gourmet mustards, crackers, breads, onions, chopped egg, relishes and horseradish.

And, you can really make it easy for yourself by ordering an arrangement of smoked seafoods from the deli or retail seafood section of your local supermarket.

Don't forget to include a variety of fish spreads and pates like "Smoked Mackerel Pate," from Julia Child; that's big on taste but short on preparation time.

Smoked mackerel fillets can be found in most major grocery stores and gourmet shops.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

It's soup time—and what is nicer on a dreary winter's day than a bowl of steaming, tasty soup?

Hearty and filling soups are as much a part of the Irish cuisine as that good old Irish whiskey; and some of the best of the Irish soups, as is the case in most other countries, aren't made according to exact recipes at all, but are often the result of the cook's resourceful combining of odds and ends from the shelf or refrigerator with whatever seasonings are on hand.

A favorite of mine, from a simple old family recipe which, I'm told, crossed the waters along with my ancestors when they left the "Ould Sod" for the New World, is made with that special ingredient of Irish cooking, the Irish potato. Here's:

IRISH POTATO SOUP
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
3 large potatoes, peeled and sliced or chunked

5 cups milk
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
1 bunch parsley, tied together

1/2 cup half and half or evaporated milk
Pinch of thyme

Chopped chives or green onions for garnish

Melt the butter or margarine in a heavy saucepan, add the onions and potatoes, stirring them around in the butter and softening them over low heat for several minutes—but don't let them brown, whatever you do. It will spoil the bland flavor you wish for this soup.

Add the other ingredients, except for the half and half or evaporated milk, and the chives or green onions, which you'll add at the last minute. Simmer for a half hour or a bit more, until the potatoes are soft. Discard the thyme, bay leaf and parsley, and strain the soup through a sieve or blend or mash well. Then, reheat in another saucepan.

Toss a little of the half and half or evaporated milk and the chopped chives or green onions into soup bowls and ladle the soup over; or trot out great-grandmother's handsome soup tureen, silver or china, pour in the soup, and scatter the chives over.

P.S. I had to alter the original recipe, as the old, old family recipe calls for a "cup of good cream fresh from the cow" on the old homestead, but the half and half or evaporated milk blends well.

Variations on the theme: Add a chopped rib of celery and a chopped bell (green) pepper to the soup while it's simmering, along with a small red hot pepper. Or, scatter shredded sharp Cheddar cheese over when serving.

Freezer saves $ and time

Using your freezer to capture the flavor and goodness of fresh meat and to take advantage of good prices—is smart.

Generally prices on beef are lowest in March or April; for pork, December or January; for lamb, December through February; and veal prices are lowest anytime after February.

Freeze meats at about zero degrees Fahrenheit. Add no more than two or three pounds for each cubic foot of freezer capacity at one time. This ensures fast freezing for top quality meat.

Good packaging is essential for meat to retain its high quality during storage. Poor wrapping materials or improper wrapping techniques cause meat to get freezer burn. Signs of freezer burn are a gray, dried-out appearance and texture, and a loss of taste and quality.

To avoid freezer burn follow these tips for wrapping and freezing meats:

First, use moisture- and vapor-proof wrappings. Make sure packages are airtight.

Second, wrap meats in meal-sized packages. Wrap steaks, chops, and ground meat patties flat. Or stack them in layers separated by double thicknesses of freezer wrap. Pad any sharp edges with extra freezer wrap to prevent tearing or puncturing the package.

Third, use the "drugstore wrap" for all meats. The "drugstore wrap" is like wrapping a gift package, but you must use a little extra wrapping material. Here's how:

Place the meat to be frozen in the center of a sheet of freezer wrapping material. The material should be about one-third longer than the distance around the meat.

Hold the two long edges of wrapping material together at the center of the meat and crease. Fold over at least twice until wrapping fits tightly against the meat. Each fold should be at least one-inch wide.

Next, fold each end into a triangle, like you would a gift package. Crease the ends close to the food to eliminate air pockets. Fold the triangles in at least twice. Make sure all folds are tight.

Press all air from the package and seal ends with freezer tape.

The Pearl River

Mississippi seeks to reclaim natural flow of river through court actions

Special to the Echo
By Sen. Margaret
"Woosie" Tate

So we have gone to court.
Why?

When two states get into a dispute over boundaries or water resources which share a common bond in both states, the U. S. Supreme Court has original jurisdiction to decide the issue. The suit or pleadings skip all other court systems.

The Supreme Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to Article III, Section 2, of the United States Constitution.

The purpose of our state filing a law suit over the Pearl River diversion issue according to official documents is, "to obtain the restoration of water flow to the Pearl River, which forms the boundary between the States of Mississippi and Louisiana, and to preserve and restore the surrounding ecosystems to a viable and navigable fresh waterway as it existed prior to the diversions and obstructions of its flow by defendants."

The suit, entitled "State of Mississippi vs. The United States of America, the State of Louisiana, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, et al's," Mississippi claims as a result of the defendants' acts and commissions, the waters of the Pearl River have been diverted from their natural, historic channel into the West Pearl River, historically a separate and distinct river system lies entirely within the State of Louisiana."

The pleadings go on this state. Beginning in the 19th Century and continuing through this date, the defendants herein have erected, or caused to be erected, obstructions, diversions, channels and canals along what was originally the main channel of the Pearl River. These structures tended to divert the flow of water from the Pearl River into the West Pearl River. Other structures, which tended to counteract this diversion, were allowed to fall into disuse and ruin.

Pretty strong language don't you think?

The brief goes on, to say,

"These diversions have diminished the flow of water in the main channel of the Pearl River to such an extent that it is no longer navigable and portions of the river are dry."

Still quoting from the brief, the state's attorney add, "In 1989, the Corps of Engineers released a report which acknowledged the possibility that the flow of the Pearl River could be totally diverted into Louisiana in the foreseeable future. This report contains several suggestions to preserve the navigability of the Pearl River which the Corps has made no effort to undertake."

Still quoting the attorneys, "Although the Corps has failed to take action to protect and restore flow to the Pearl River, they have continually acted to promote and improve the navigability of the West Pearl River in Louisiana. The defendants currently propose dredging in the West Pearl, which if implemented, would cause the water to flow more swiftly through the dredged channel and increase the loss of flow from the East Pearl River."

Strong language indeed.

The environmental, economic and social consequences of the diversion of flows from the Pearl River to the West Pearl River have been catastrophic. The wetland and marine ecosystems dependent on the viability of the Pearl River have been seriously degraded, and the problems are growing worse every day.

Also addressed is the Common Law Public Nuisance statute with Mississippi arguing that, "Such obstructions and diversions (the sill) constitutes a public nuisance at common law which the State of Mississippi is authorized to enjoin on behalf of its citizens."

The wonderful taking portion of the suit addresses the right of Mississippians to the water as a natural flow, use, and benefit. Abuse of discretion explains to the court that the Corps of Engineers have, in the past, had funds allocated at their discretion, and again I quote the brief, the "Defendants have abused any discretion which they may have had in refusing to use such funds to maintain the character, navigability, and integrity of the Pearl River, and have expended same in an arbitrary and capricious manner."

Mississippi is asking that the court declare the plaintiff is entitled, under the doctrine of equitable apportionment, "to the natural flow, use and benefit of the waters of the Pearl River and is entitled to have these restored to the level of the natural flow."

What does all this really mean? It means that the State of Mississippi has legally taken the State of Louisiana, the United States of America and most expressly, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to court in order to obtain through court relief, action that will restore the Pearl River as it was 100 years ago when the flow was strong, swift and deep.

It's about time for strong language and even stronger action—we're on the way.

Winn-Dixie, Salvation Army together combat hunger

When customers of Winn-Dixie Stores Inc. say "Even It Up" at checkout, they are actually requesting that the small change from their grocery purchases help to feed the hungry.

The cashier at checkout rounds off the customer's total food purchase to the next dollar, and diverts the change into The Salvation Army fund in the war against hunger.

The program was set up in January 1989 by Winn-Dixie and The Salvation Army, and has grown to $262,014 which has been diverted into food certificates for needy families across the Sunbelt.

The food certificates are disbursed by The Salvation Army to households with the greatest needs, focusing on the children and the elderly.

Tide charts available from GCRL

1991 tide tables for Biloxi Bay, Pascagoula and Bay St. Louis are available free or charge again this year from the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs, according to Dr. Charles K. Eleuterius, the laboratory's physical oceanography section head.

Interested persons may call 375-2244 or write to Tide Tables, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, P. O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39564-7000.

They are redeemable at all Winn-Dixie stores for nonperishables such as produce, dairy products, fresh and smoked meats which cannot be distributed from food banks equipped to handle only non-refrigerated foods.

Participating Winn-Dixie store locations throughout Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and the Carolinas are identified by the Even It Up sign at checkout.

Freezer

Consult your freezer use and care guide for information on recommended storage time for each type of meat.

Now is the perfect time to clean out your freezer. Use those holiday leftovers and check what foods you have. Also, pull those foods that have been in the freezer for some time towards the front or top and plan to use soon.

Be sure foods and/or dishes you freeze are labeled with the name of the food, date, and any special heating instructions.

Use your freezer to save food dollars and for convenience. Buying specials and freezing for use later saves money at point of purchase and you have the convenience of having food on hand when you need it. Remember that many prepared dishes freeze well and can save time when there's not time to cook.

TIME OUT

Leading the coast in basketball scoring is David Weems of Bay High School, with 24.4 points per game. Other high scorers are team mates Mike Scharp with 14.5 and Calvin Thigpen with 11.0.

Per game, Weems averages 3.9 in assists, while Scharp steals 2.6.

Terrance Goff, honored by the Mississippi Sports Writers Association, received honorable mention all-state football honors as a running back and return specialist.

In boys basketball, Hancock High School lost to Long Beach, 77-87 during the Tuesday, Jan. 8 Division 8, Class 4-A basketball game.

Fourth-ranked Long Beach broke a 65-65 tie midway in the fourth quarter with a seven-point run.

The defeat brought Hancock's rating to 11-7 overall and 2-3 in division. Long Beach is now 5-0 in division ranking.

Hancock players, Leo Acker led the team with 18 points, Maurice Payne followed with 17 points and eight rebounds, Tyron Ladner scored 11 points and Dorian Acker contributed with 10 assists.

The Hancock Hawks bested the Pearl River Central Blue Devils, 64-58 during the sixth annual Picayune basketball tournament Friday, Jan. 4.

Darin Acker scored game-high for Hancock with 21 points, while Leo Acker added in 19. Tyrone Ladner followed with 11 points.

Hancock's girls basketball team was defeated by the Long Beach Bearkittens 79-45 during the Tuesday, Jan. 8 Division 8, Class 4-A action.

Natasha Ladner kept Hancock moving in the first quarter when she scored with all of her first three shots, keeping the score close at 8-6. But the first half told a different story when only seven of 31 shots scored for the Hawkettes.

The defeat came as a surprise, for Hancock had played a tighter game against Long Beach in December, when they met during the Bay High Tournament, losing by only three points.

Hancock's Lady Hawks defeated Pearl River Central, 69-54, in basketball, Friday, Jan. 4.

Natasha Ladner led the scoring for Hancock with 19 points. Stacey Lauren followed with 17 and Leah Smith ringed 16.

It was the twelfth win of the season for Hancock.

Our Lady Academy soccer team took Ocean Springs, 2-1, Monday, Jan. 7, at the St. Stanislaus field.

Erin O'Brien and Julie Heitzmann provided assists for the OLA team. Defensive standouts for OLA were Day Hays, Lindy Heitzmann, Caroline Weems and Kristy Heitzmann.

The "Vets", Bronze "D" Division, defeated "Daffy's II" 10-8.

Ben Stagg scored high out with 32 for the "Vets".

"Stars & Stripes", Silver League West Division, tied 9-9 with T.O.'s "Top Guns".

For "Stars & Stripes", Bobby Bates scored the men's high with 125. Rabbit Dabbs scored the ladies' high with 47 and Joe Jenkins scored the high out with 124.

Tonight, the "Vets" play the "Roadrunners" at Snowden's Lounge in Gulfport, and "Stars & Stripes" play the "Bullshooters" from Club Orleans at the VFW Post in Pass Christian. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

One-design championships to be part of Audi Yachting Race Week at Key West, Fl., January 13-18.

This year's fleet will be drawn from Florida, the Gulf Coast states, Chesapeake Bay, Long Island Sound and California.

The J-44 class, which raced last year as part of the International Measure System (IMS) fleet, one of three Race Week handicap divisions, will have a separate start and category this year since Race Week at Key West is its North American Championship.

PRC football coach recovering from stroke

Pearl River Community College head football coach and athletic director Mike Nelson, who reportedly suffered a stroke Dec. 14, is regaining his speech and mobility.

Nelson, 47, remains in Forrest General Hospital in Hattiesburg, but this wife, Karen, says he is "doing much better."

"Mike is going through therapy two times a day," said Mrs. Nelson. "He is regaining his speech and he is remembering. I think he is going to be fine."

Nelson wrecked his Honda Shadow about 1:45 p.m. Friday, Dec. 14 while heading west on Hwy. 26 just inside the Poplarville city limits. He was rushed to Forrest General Hospital and remained in the intensive care unit until Dec. 18.

The PRC coach had bought the motorcycle as an early Christmas present less than an hour before he slid into a sign 10-15 feet off the road. Police estimate that Nelson was traveling only 10-15 miles per hour. He was wearing a helmet.

It was first thought that Nelson had "lost control" of his bike, however, doctors at Forrest General Hospital later confirmed that he had suffered a stroke and that probably caused the accident. He had no broken bones from the accident.

"We are well pleased with the progress Coach Nelson seems to be making, and we certainly hope that his illness will be short-lived," said Ted J. Alexander, president of Pearl River College.

In Nelson's absence and during this period of recovery, Alexander announced assistant coach Bill Martin will be acting head football coach and athletic director.

Martin and the other PRC assistant coaches will be on the road handling recruiting chores for the next year. Martin will also head spring practice.

Nelson has spent six years at Pearl River College compiling a 34-25-1 record. This past year,

Pass parade change proposed

BY TRACI BONNEY.

Pass Christian may be making a slight alteration in its Mardi Gras parade route, according to parade marshal Frank Wittmann.

Wittmann said city government officials have asked that the parade disband at the corner of Henderson Ave. and St.

Louis Street, instead of finishing at Davis Street as it has in the past.

The request, which he said city fathers made to allow emergency vehicles to have better access to the various parts of the parade route, has drawn criticism from some parade-goers.

Wittmann said the carnival association and the city government may meet again tonight to further discuss the matter.

If the route alteration is made, the February 10 parade will still start at 1 p.m. at its traditional line-up location on Davis Street north of Second Street. From there it will move south on Davis to Scenic, west on Scenic past Miramar Nursing Lodge onto Hwy. 90 and continue west to Henderson, then travel north on Henderson to St. Louis, where the parade will disband.

In the past, the parade has continued east on St. Louis to Church Street, south on Church to Second Street, and east on Second back to Davis to disband.

Wittmann said the parade, with the theme "Starstruck" this year, is expected to have about 75 total units. "The carnival association has been getting calls from people wanting to put everything from golf carts to airplanes in the parade."

The parade's length may have to be limited, he explained, because of the possibly shorter route.

The Pass Christian parade is one of the largest on the Gulf Coast, traditionally drawing 20,000 people or more each year and attracting floats and parade units from other states as well as the local area.

Mardi Gras is early this year

Mardi Gras (Fat Tuesday) is celebrated as the final day of festivity before the six weeks of the Lenten season observed primarily by Catholics and Episcopalians.

Several groups mark the festive occasion with parades in the weeks prior to February; among them are the Krewe of Diamondhead, who will take to the streets on February 9; Nereids, who will parade February 3 in Waveland; and the Krewe of Real People, which will roll Mardi Gras Day, February 12, in Bay St. Louis.

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Justin Furman, ST.

"Here below to live is to change, and to be perfect is to have changed often."

—Cardinal John Henry Newman

"The triumph of the Wise Men was not their science; it was their faith. Their victory over the ages was not because of what they learned or taught in the school of science or philosophy; it was because of their belief in God and His Guiding Providence, in what the Holy Spirit had taught them."

—Father Thomas Augustin Judge

Twentieth Star - NS DAR

By Joe Williams Pilet

It is interesting to note that many counties in Mississippi have Indian names. Some of these names are difficult to pronounce and some, when translated into English, are far from complimentary. A few are amusing.

Here are some examples: Amite is an Indian name that means "friendly river," Chicasaw means rebellion;

Choctaw means "separation," Coahome means red panther, while Copiah means "calling panther."

Another county named for an animal is Issaquena, meaning Deer River."

Itawamba is an Indian name honoring a chief, and Neshoba means wolf. Why Noxubee was so named is unclear, but in Indian language it means "stinking water."

Oktibbeha means "bloody water," and Tallahatchie means "rock river." Tippah means "cut off," and Tunica means "little people."

Amusing is a county named Yalobusha. That word means "tadpole place." Yazoo means "river of death" and Pontotoc means "weed prairie." By a study of these names we might make our vocabulary colorful.

It is of interest to note that only eight counties had been organized in Mississippi when Hancock and Jackson counties were formed on the same day. At that time, James Madison was president of the United States.

Formed in 1817, Amite County was first organized in Mississippi territory in 1809. Attala County needs more research. Formed in 1833, the county was said to have been named for an Indian heroine, according to the Official and Statistical Register.

It seems highly unlikely that a county would be named for a female. The search continues. Many of our Indians were relocated in Oklahoma. The state's seal tells better than words.

On the seal, an Indian and a white man shake hands before the justice to show the cooperation of the people of Oklahoma. The large star has symbols of the five civilized tribes which first settled the region. The seal was adopted in 1907. A peace pipe and an olive branch are meaningful symbols.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1991-IB

1990 court — Nereids Visits Oz

Krewe of Nereids celebrates 25 years

BY TRACI BONNEY

As the Krewe of Nereids prepares to kick off its 25th annual Mardi Gras festivities, all the usual trappings are present: luxurious, sequin-studded costumes; stacks of gift-wrapped palm favors; boxes of purple, yellow and green dusters to be parade are not revealed until the night of the dance.

In addition, the names of the queens are not revealed, even on the plaques underneath their pictures at the krewe's headquarters.

The Krewe of Nereids was formed as an all-female organization a quarter-century ago at Waveland Drug Store. The captain said a plaque sits on the table where the krewe was born.

Neptune in Greek mythology. The Nereids were supposedly a group of mermaids who frolicked about in the seas."

The krewe's connection by name to the mythological Greek god of the seas didn't help when Hurricane Camille hit, though. The krewe's "den," the warehouse, where the parade floats are stored, was destroyed along with most of Waveland's structures.

However, the captain said, the Nereids den was the first building in Waveland to be rebuilt.

"Some of us had houses that were destroyed, like mine was. But the den was where we kept the floats, so the krewe got it back up."

"We had our dance and parade the next year, but it was a sad parade. If you look at the pictures, everyone looks so sad."

Nereids started its parades in downtown Waveland and its balls at the St. Joseph Academy gym. Nowadays, Nereids has 20 floats in its

1982 parade — The Adventures of Alice used by krewe members for second-lining at the ball; and secrecy, lots of secrecy.

The 1991 Nereids captain, who in keeping with the krewe's traditions asked to remain anonymous, said, "We're really the only krewe on the Coast that keeps with the New Orleans traditions to this extent."

"The queen and king don't meet until about 20 minutes before the ball. The dukes and maids don't meet until the day of the ball, either."

And of course, the theme for the masquerade ball and

"The krewe was named Nereids," she explained, "for the daughters of Nereus and Doris, who were children of the sea."

However, the captain said, the Nereids den was the first building in Waveland to be rebuilt.

"Some of us had houses that were destroyed, like mine was. But the den was where we kept the floats, so the krewe got it back up."

"We had our dance and parade the next year, but it was a sad parade. If you look at the pictures, everyone looks so sad."

Nereids started its parades in downtown Waveland and its balls at the St. Joseph Academy gym. Nowadays, Nereids has 20 floats in its Coast Coliseum.

The captain did reveal one bit of information concerning the 1991 Nereids ball. She said the opening tableau will represent the past (with past kings and queens), the present (with the officers and the captain), and the future (with the Daughters of Nereids, made up of high school and college-age daughters of krewe members).

The captain said that while the ball is by invitation only, the parade is something the whole community is encouraged to take part in and enjoy.

She said the whole krewe gets involved in the float-making process. Ed Scanlan Jr., who has worked with the krewe 20 years, designs and sketches out the floats. The krewe members then paint the floats according to Scanlan's directions.

After the painting is complete, Scanlan finishes the highlighting work.

The costuming and choreography for the ball are handled by many people. The captain designs the krewe's costumes, which are then executed by several local dressmakers. The court's costumes are designed and executed by Carter Church of New Orleans. The ball has been choreographed for the last seven years by Kevin Champagne.

This year's ball will be held January 19. The parade is set for February 3.

The captain also said the krewe will hold its 25th anniversary banquet and dance at the Hancock County Civic Center in March. "We will honor the charter members and those who have helped to get Nereids where it is today," she stated.

U.S. Navy lends a hand at Bay Middle School

Bay Middle School was adopted by the U.S. Navy December 18.

Adopt-A-School is a voluntary partnership between a public school and a business or a military command. The command, in this case the Naval Oceanography Office at the John C. Stennis Space Center, provides human resources to enrich the school. A special bond is created between the two partners in order to implement mutual agreement upon activities.

Types of services that Naval officials will provide to students include:

- tutoring;
- lectures, demonstrations or presentations;
- career or health fairs;
- sponsoring of art contest and art displays at the Naval Oceanography Center;
- bulletin board displays at the center and at the school; —field trips and group tours; —painting, cleaning, and landscaping efforts at the school;

—sponsoring or assisting with special events, sports events, dances, cook-outs, fun-runs (as the fun run scheduled in March), festivals, carnivals;

—job observance during which time a student observes a Navy worker on the job;

—involving school in community outreach programs, such as Toys for Tots, canned food drives, Christmas caroling at hospitals and nursing home visits.

The program will be ongoing throughout the school year, under the command of program manager, Tim Tabor.

Tabor will be supported by a team from the center, which meets regularly to evaluate the program and develop ideas for activities.

SLT holds tryouts for Odets' drama

Director Jim Edmonston has announced open tryouts for The Country Girls Sunday and Monday, Jan. 20 and 21, 7:30 p.m., at the Slidell Little Theatre.

The cast calls for two women, ages 17 to 40, and six men, ages

The Country Girls is a strong dramatic play and is timeless in its appeal—one of Clifford Odets' best. It is a play with lots of good, meaty roles. Jim is assisted by Suzanne Parsons. Contact either Jim at 863-7004 or Suzanne at 643-0506 for more information.
